

JERRY MCCARTHY WAS KILLED WHEN SIDES OF DITCH CAVED IN ON BLUFF STREET; COMPANION HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE

AGED MAN WAS PINNED BENEATH HEAVY BURDEN OF EARTH AND COULD NOT BREATHE.

DONOVAN WAS BRUISED

Other Workmen Dug Like Maniacs to Release Their Imprisoned Companion.

Jerry McCarthy, a man over seventy years of age, was rushed to death in a serious emergency of the walls of the ditch which is being dug by the Jamesville Water Company on South Bluff street, and his companion, William Donovan, was severely crushed and perhaps fatally injured.

The accident occurred shortly after half past two o'clock this afternoon while both men were busy digging at the farther end of the ditch which had been excavated to a point in front of the Kommerger garage. The men were standing at the bottom of the ditch seven feet below the surface at the time when the earth wall began to slide. They had no possible means of escape and before they realized it they were crushed and imprisoned by the heavy weight with only their heads visible.

At 10:15 a quickly summoned and their fellow workers at the other end of the ditch ran to their aid. They were placed against the sides which pressed upon the men but were of no avail. Shovels were pressed into quick service but it took over a quarter of an hour to free Donovan from the weight which threatened his life. When he was taken from the ditch and examined by Dr. E. F. Woods he was found to have suffered no apparent serious injury. His breath had been knocked out but his chest had been relieved of the weight which pressed against it soon after the cave-in and he was not severely hurt. He did not receive the full shock of the blow as his companion and being a younger man he was able to withstand a greater strain.

McCarthy was all but buried in the avalanche which forced its full weight against his chest and limbs. Only his face was above the dirt and when Dr. Woods arrived he was dead. He had lived not longer than two minutes after the accident and no human power could have availed in saving his life.

McCarthy was a man well known in the city as he had worked on the streets for the Water Company and for the city for a number of years past. He was a rugged man and had been a most energetic and dogged worker. His life had been frugal but he was beloved and respected by his fellow workers who found him a genial companion.

The cause of the accident was apparent from the heavy weight of the excavated material which weighed down on the weaker substrata of sand and gravel. Evidently the cave-in had started from the bottom, the entire side of the wall sliding down in an instant without warning. Neither of the men had time to call for help.

NOTED CIRCUS MAN DIED SUNDAY LAST, WELL KNOWN HERE

Spencer Alexander, Best Known as "Delavan," Former Jamesville Resident, Passes Away.

Spencer Alexander, known from one end of the circus world to the other as "Delavan," the best known "flow flosser" in the world of the big tops, died suddenly at Ft. Smith, Ark., and his remains passed through Jamesville today on route for Indiana where the funeral will be held. There was probably no one circus man in the business today that had as national a reputation as did Alexander. There will probably be no man who will be mourned as sincerely by the men of the big tops as Alexander. For the past twenty-five years he has had entire charge of the horses of the Ringling Brothers, buying for their shows and traveling each summer with the Ringling show itself.

Alexander was born near Eau Claire but as a young boy went to Delavan where he lived with an uncle, who ran the hotel, handled the mail route between that city and Whitewater and had a large livery barn. Alexander began his show career with the O'Brien show and in 1875 he joined the Hare Robbins outfit in Jamesville, remaining with that aggregation until 1881. For a year he lived in Jamesville and conducted a livery and auto stable, but the call of the sawdust was too much for him and he went back into the circus business in '83, staying one more year with the Robbins show and then transferring his allegiance to the Ringlings, whose right hand man he has since been.

It was while he made Jamesville his home he was married to Miss Margaret McCann and his widow, a married daughter and two sons, Edward, financial agent for the Ringlings, and Joe, with the Gollmer Brothers, are left to mourn his loss. Two years ago the Ringlings sent Alexander to Europe with a special courier to buy imported stock and after remaining abroad for several months he returned without having purchased anything, stating that he could not find anything good enough on the other side of the water for the big Wisconsin show.

Delaney Nicoll, representing the American Tobacco company, charged the independent of attempting to destroy the American company for the purpose of "picking up its property on the auction block."

During the argument Nicoll was interrupted by Judge Lacombe, who announced a belated petition of protest on the part of the State of Wisconsin was just filed.

The Wisconsin tobacco growers opposed the re-organization plan and asked the court the privilege of presenting the case from their standpoint. This was granted.

SECRETARY OF NAVY MEYER VIEWS GREAT FLEET OF WARSHIPS

Greatest American Naval Review Held On Hudson River This Afternoon—Ships Gaily Decorated.

New York, Oct. 31.—One hundred and two vessels of the American Navy, the largest fleet ever assembled under the Stars and Stripes, in their gayest holiday dress, were reviewed by Secretary of the Navy Meyer today, while hundreds of thousands of spectators, on the banks of the Hudson, watched the spectacle. The aggregate tonnage of the assembled war vessels was over one-half million as compared with less than one-third of this total present at the naval review by President Roosevelt in Hampton Roads five years ago. The aggregation of American dreadnoughts and smaller vessels taking part in today's spectacle represented approximately the huge outlay of $300,000,000.

Dressed from stem to stern in a riot of hunting, the gray lines of the warships, with a background formed by the Palisades, beautiful in the autumn foliage, made a magnificent spectacle as viewed from Riverside Park and other points of vantage on the Manhattan side of the river.

On the broad bosom of the Hudson the vessels floated in an array in three columns, each eight miles long, stretching from a point about opposite Fifty-seventh street up the river to the mouth of Spuyten Duyvil Creek. Proceeding from the lower extremity of the columns, Secretary Meyer, standing on the bridge of the naval yacht Mayflower and surrounded by his aides and a number of invited guests, went northward through the lines formed by the battleships, cruisers, torpedo boats and destroyers, submarines and naval auxiliaries.

All the while the ships kept up a roar of salutes. The ship's sides were manned by blue-jackets at attention, the quarterdecks were thronged with officers and marine guards, red-coated bands played the national air, while "ho-booms" whistles piped out the order of the day.

At the completion of its progress through the anchored lines the Mayflower took up its station near the Customs Connection. Rear Admiral Gower, the commander of the fleet and all of the flag and commanding officers boarded the yacht and were received by Secretary Meyer on the quarterdeck. As the officers, in full dress uniform, came over the side of the yacht they were greeted by the blast of bugles, the rattle of drums, and finally by a cordial handshake from the chief officer of the Navy Department.

Of the warships taking part in the great demonstration six were battleships of the dreadnought class. They were the Florida, Utah, Delaware, S. C. were the Florida, Utah, Michigan, in Carolina, N. Dakota and Michigan. In addition there was a splendid array of first-class battleships of the Connecticut type, numberless, all told, six ships—the Minnesota, New Hampshire, Kansas, Vermont, Louisiana and Connecticut. Added to these were the battleships of the type represented by the Idaho and the Mississippi, five of the Virginia type, being battleships that ship, the Georgia, New Jersey, Nebraska, and Rhode Island, and of the Missouri type, including that vessel, the Ohio and the Maine.

These are the ships upon which the United States would rely in time of war to do the actual fighting. The tonnage of these battleships is close to 400,000 and the broadside of the big guns they could fire would mean a hail of 15-inch and 12-inch projectiles weighing approximately 113,000 pounds, while a broadside of all guns of all sizes would total at least 150,000 pounds of steel.

In addition to the giant battleships the long lines of fighting machines included the two big armored cruisers Washington and North Carolina, the fast-flying scout cruiser Saturn, the unprotected cruisers Des Moines and San Francisco, a fleet of submarines, five flotillas of torpedo boat destroyers and torpedo boats, eight of the newest and finest submarines in the world, and a fleet of splendid naval auxiliaries.

Small wonder, then, that a crowd estimated at fully 1,000,000 persons turned out to view the great naval spectacle. All the vantage points along both shores of the river were black with masses of people, while excursion craft of every description carried thousands of spectators as close to the vessels of the fleet as the alert little patrol boats would permit.

During the early forenoon the trains arriving in the metropolis brought great crowds of sightseers from all over New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and even from distant points in the East and in New England.

CHINA'S FUTURE IS STILL IN BALANCE

NATIVE CHINESE ANGRY OVER THE SLAUGHTER AT HANK CHOW SEEK REVENGE.

MANY EDICTS ISSUED

All the Rights of the Manchus Are Taken Away From Them—Fearful Slaughter Expected.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Shanghai, Oct. 31.—A very few days will tell the future fortune of China. The brutal treatment of the Chinese by the Manchus at Hankow has created the worst possible impression. It is predicted that the Manchus' domination already in the edicts issued at Peking the slaughter will exceed the famous Taiping rebellion.

At Canton. Canton, Oct. 31.—The Dragon flag was again hoisted here today and business resumed.

Late Report. Hankow, Oct. 31.—The revolutionists who have reorganized are furiously contesting the Imperialist advance on Han Yang. The Red Cross estimates a thousand revolutionists were killed and three thousand wounded. The Loyallists lost three hundred killed.

Earlier Report. Peking, Oct. 31.—The state of terror which has taken possession of the Imperial Court was further evidenced today by long lists of edicts. These indicate that the Manchu rule is at an end.

The transfer of seven cabinet offices to native Chinese is ordered and the throne awaits that "hereafter Manchus and Chinese shall be regarded equally."

This means that the elaborate system of Manchu pensions will be discontinued and the Manchus left to earn their living by their own enterprise. Revolutionists declare that the dynasty's partial surrender has come too late. The announcement that Manchu office holders must go and that Manchu pensions be cut off has stirred up a formidable opposition and members of this race are talking of massacre as a means of revenge.

Prince Tuan Tiao, the uncle of the baby Emperor, and well known in Europe and in America, is said by the Chinese to be willing to lead the massacre party.

Both Chinese and Manchus are seeking means of protection from each other at legations. Foreigners are anxious over the situation in Peking. Pears are entertained for foreigners in the province of Shan Si, many of whom are Americans.

Hankow Recaptured. Shanghai, Oct. 31.—The rebels recaptured Hankow Sunday after the bloodiest battle since the revolution broke out, according to native information brokers here today. Wireless dispatches from foreign warships in the Yangtze river of the city refer to fighting today. Since Friday the rebel death roll is placed at one thousand and the Imperialist list at three hundred. This does not include the Hankow citizens slaughtered by the Imperialists after the rebels had retreated across the river.

Re-informed, the rebels returned and while the Imperialists were looting, massacring and burning, the rebels forced their way across the stream and engaged the enemy hand to hand.

The battle raged along the river which was littered with corpses. The Imperialists were finally defeated.

The greater part of the city is said to be a heap of blackened ruins. Much uneasiness is felt for foreigners.

Yuan Shi Kai's emissaries are negotiating today with the rebel leaders at Wu Chang for a cessation of the rebellion on the basis of the reforms promised in yesterday's edict, issued by the Chinese Emperor at Peking. The rebels do not appear to trust the government.

Latest advices from Peking say that the outlook there remains critical. Legations are ready for emergencies and the city gates are still under heavy guard, fearing rebel attacks.

CITY IS FORBIDDEN USE OF WATER FOR FLUSHING SEWERS

STREET COMMISSIONER INFORMS COUNCIL THAT WATER COM-PANY REFUSED TO LET HIM OPEN HYDRANTS.

A VERY BUSY EVENING

Several Interesting Arguments
Brought Up and Fought Out
Last Night.

Owing to the fact that the Janesville Water Company had prepared its hydrants for winter, by draining off the water and then packing them, had so notified the city authorities and that after all this had been done the city officials wanted to flush the sewers, which meant undoing all the work on the hydrants, there was a terrible stir in the council chamber last evening.

So did it subside today. Superintendent Dyer was out of the city attending a funeral, and as a consequence there was much shouting about on the part of certain city officials, who threatened to apply to the railway commission, or even to use police force, if necessary, to flush the sewers.

One of the results of the session at the council was the passage of the message to instruct the city clerk to serve notification that the question of the purchase of the water works by the city would be voted on at the next spring election. This was presented by Alderman Sheridan and passed unanimously.

Although the differences with the Janesville Water company were the most important matters that came before the council, they were far from the only ones. The hearing of the Washington street and Center avenue controversy, respectively championed by Alderman Dulin and Alderman Evans and Hall.

The spark which kindled the slumbering fire of controversy was produced by Alderman Evans who introduced a motion that the street commissioner be instructed to fill all the pits and holes on Washington street from Milwood to Avenue to the city limits. Alderman Dulin saw a red flag waved at him and ventured a query whether there were any more holes in Washington street than in Center avenue. He asserted that the council had no more right to order repairs on the one than the other. The reply of Alderman Evans that an injunction and not any part of the council held up the Center avenue work did not pacify in the least Alderman Dulin. He referred indignantly to the work which had been done on North River street, and said that he would see the matter through the courts before he gave up the fight.

At this point City Attorney Maxfield was asked as to the legality of the motion of Alderman Evans. He replied that if the order was carried out to the letter that it would be entirely legal, but that if it was attempted to resurface the street under that order the work would be clearly illegal. Alderman Evans declared his intention of seeing the order strictly interpreted.

The discussion at this point grew so heated, and continued so far from the question before the house that Mayor Nichols called Alderman Dulin to order and instructed him to talk to the point. But the intrepid Dulin would not be thus confined and in a few moments Mayor Nichols declared him out of order and rapped sharply with his gavel. As a final stroke Alderman Dulin moved that action on the motion of Alderman Evans be deferred until the next meeting. The vote resulted in a tie, Alderman Dulin, Dyer, Lane, Sheridan and Spohn voting for postponement, and Alderman Hall, Evans, Shurtliff, and Conner voting against postponement. Alderman Schmitz and Dinschlag were absent. Mayor Nichols cast a deciding vote in favor of the motion, but the heated discussion broke out afresh, and after Mayor Nichols had ascertained that no further business was to come before the meeting, the motion of Alderman Hall to adjourn was submitted and carried.

The city clerk was instructed to draw an order for $4000 payable to the Central States Bridge company as a partial payment for the Racine street bridge. The amount due on the bond was in place of, on the ground. A payment of $3,500 was previously made.

A motion introduced by Alderman Dulin that the city engineer be instructed to prepare and file a grade for Center avenue from Pleasant st. to the Rock river was passed unanimously. This grade will be the basis for a suit against the city by P. C. Harp.

An order was made in the session of trouble between contractors over who had the contract to lay brick gutters on Pleasant street. It was decided that Moore & Lovelace were not of necessity entitled to the contract because they had a general contract for laying cement sidewalks.

JANESVILLE FILMS DRAW LARGE CROWD

Many People Witness First Production of Local Moving Picture Company —To Benefit Firemen.

Despite the rain last evening a large crowd turned out to see the Janesville moving pictures which were shown at the Majestic theatre for the first time yesterday. Those pictures, which cover a great many different phases of life in Janesville, are being exhibited by the theatre for the benefit of the fireman's relief fund. The regular films are being shown at the same time so that the eight hundred feet of Janesville pictures are extra, and it is expected that several hundred people will witness them before they are sent to the other cities in the state.

Among the most interesting of the pictures are those which show the fire department in all of its different parts. Following the sending in of an alarm the men are seen jumping from the ladder and sliding down the brass pole to the floor below and then the horses are shown dashing from the station. The run down South Jackson street is made by the chief's auto and several of the wagons including the hook and ladder after the apparatus has been shown coming from all three of the stations. The engine and hook and ladder in action are also to be seen.

All through it is a very good representation of the local fire companies and a film which will be an excellent advertisement for the city.

Fire drills at the high school, the arrival of a train at the St. Paul depot with many Janesville people to be seen among the crowds, Milwaukee street taken from the front end of a street car, Monterey at midnight, some of the Janesville factories and their employees and many other things which are characteristic of the city may be seen in these films.

The club has many sides to it, some of which are directly concerned with each one of us and the speakers have been well chosen throughout.

Those who have belonged to the club in past years will realize the benefit which is to be gained from the discussion of so interesting a subject and with those who desire to join for the first time are urged to be present at this first meeting if possible.

These discussions, as taken up by the club, do not get into depths which are beyond the ordinary individual, but are practical talks and speeches on practical topics.

It is expected that this will be a bumper year in the annals of the Social Union and every effort is being made to make the topics as practical and helpful as possible. The committee in charge of the program and speakers are open to any suggestions and will gladly accept topics for consideration.

A HEALTHY, HAPPY OLD AGE

May be promoted by those who gently cleanse the system, now and then, in the need of a laxative remedy, by taking a desertspoonful of the ever refreshing, wholesome and truly beneficial Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, which is the only family laxative generally approved by the most eminent physicians, because it acts in a natural, strengthening way and warms and tones up the internal organs without weakening them. It is equally beneficial for the very young and the middle aged, as it is always efficient and free from all harmful ingredients. To get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine, bearing the name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package.

ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS FOR S. MAIN STREET?

Two Standards Will Be Erected Jointly by Business Men, It is Stated—
More Expected to Follow.

It is said that South Main street business men are to take the lead in the installation of an ornamental lighting system in Janesville. Information was received from a trustworthy source today that the five-lamp standard which has been standing in front of the Bower City bank will be placed in front of the Fredonall grocery and the Kenilworth block, which will soon be occupied by the undertaking establishment of D. Ryan & Sons. It is said another lighting standard will be erected jointly by the Janesville Steam Laundry, the Helms Seed company, and McVear brothers. Each standard is equipped with five fifty candle-power tungsten lamps. It is understood that the installations mentioned are the first of a number to be made, not only by Main street business men, but by those on other streets as well.

Sutherland High Score of Season
With 201 Pins—Blues Have But 135 Pins Above Reds.

In the bowling match last night at Hockett's alley the Blues won two games from the Reds and came within six pins of making it three straight. By making a score of 201 Sutherland won the title of high man for the match and also of the season. The contest was very interesting to watch as the opponents each had a game at the end of the second and the outcome was in excellent form. The Reds and the Blues are now even with five wins and five losses each, and there will be a fight between these two teams to see who is the best, which will make the others they have had seem like fools. Last night's scores were as follows:

DEATH CALLS AGED
EDGERTON RESIDENT

Mrs. Martha E. Nelson, For Many Years a Resident of Tobacco City,
Died Sunday—Mrs. Rose
Rnosch.

(Special to the Gazette)

Edgerton, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Martha E. Nelson was found dead Sunday morning at the residence of her son, Hain Nelson, in the northern part of the city. Apparently as well as usual she was up in the morning about an hour before the family arose, but soon after went to her bed again and life was extinct when the discovery was made. Death is attributed to old age, being in her eighty-second year, and a physician who was called to make an examination found an artery had broken. Mrs. Nelson was a native of Norway, where she also was married. Coming to America in 1871 the family settled in Stoughton. In 1901 she was bereft of her husband and soon thereafter she came to Edgerton and made her home with her son, who is the only surviving member of the family. The remains will be taken to Stoughton tomorrow where the funeral will be held and where interment will be made.

Mrs. Rose Rnosch, a widow and a resident of this city for the past seventeen years, died at an early hour Sunday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William Sell, in the northern part of the city. Sick only one week, her death is said to be due to old age. Born in Germany, August 25, 1829, where her husband died, she came to America and for a number of years made her home with her son, August Rnosch. For the past five years she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Sell, who, together with two sons, August and Albert, are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. The funeral services were held this afternoon at the Norwegian Lutheran church, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. J. C. Spittman.

Local News.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF JAMESVILLE DEAD

Mrs. William W. Wills Passed Away
At Her Home on Linn Street
This Morning.

This morning, shortly after three, the angel of death called to her last resting place the soul of Mrs. William W. Wills, one of Jamesville's pioneer residents. While not in good health for a year past, a paralytic stroke on Sunday was the immediate cause of her demise. Mrs. Lavina Thurston Wills has been a resident of Jamesville for the past forty-seven years and during that period has made many friends who will mourn her death.

The deceased was born at Rochester, Vermont, January 24, 1835, and was married to William W. Wills, July 1, 1852, at Roylton, that state. With her husband she moved west in the spring of 1855, settling at Palatine, Ill. Later they moved to Woodstock, and in March 1864, came to Jamesville, where they established a permanent residence.

Mrs. Wills was a charter member of the W. H. Sargent Woman's Relief Corps No. 21 and for seven consecutive years she held the office of Chaplain. The deceased was also a member of Jamesville Chapter No. 49, O. E. S.

Surviving Mrs. Wills are her husband, a half sister, Mrs. Sophia L. Dunn of Springfield, Vermont, two children, Ella L. of this city, George M. of Marquette, Michigan, and three grandchildren, Thalia Verne, Earl Dunlap, and Ella Leone. One granddaughter, Ethel Vin, died in Huron, South Dakota, March 27, 1897.

"Is Marriage a Failure."
When we ask, "Is marriage a failure?" we might as well ask, "Is life a failure?" for marriage partakes of the imperfection of life, and, no more than life, is to be condemned for its imperfections. It is quite true that no marriages are perfectly happy, just as no lives are perfectly happy. But those who attack marriage for this reason assume that it is an institution designed to produce perfect happiness—that is to say, they assume an absurdity.—London Times.

Gray Hair.
Hair should be allowed to grow gray naturally. All dyes made of mercury or lead are dangerous and destroy the beauty and color of the hair. Let us gracefully accept the snowy locks of age. They harmonize with the face which has been changed by time and sorrow. Many faces are softened and beautified by white hair. It is more graceful and dignified not to attempt to repair the ravages of time.

Necessary Labor.
Everything within and about us shows that it never was intended that man should be idle. Our own health and comfort and the welfare and happiness of those around us, all require that man should labor. Mind, body, soul, all alike suffer and rust out by idleness. The idler is a source of mental and moral offense to everybody around. He is a nuisance in the world and needs abatement for the public good, like any other source of pestilence.

Sort of Job He Wanted.
"There's what I'm looking for," said the lazy man going through the want advertisements for an easy job as his eye lighted on a call for canvassers to sell something that "would sell itself." "That's the sort of a job I want," he said to himself. "Something that I can earn money at without work." And he thought that really some day he must go down and look 'em up.

Triumph of the Young.
Modern life is arranged entirely to suit the tastes and needs of the young generation.—The Graphic.

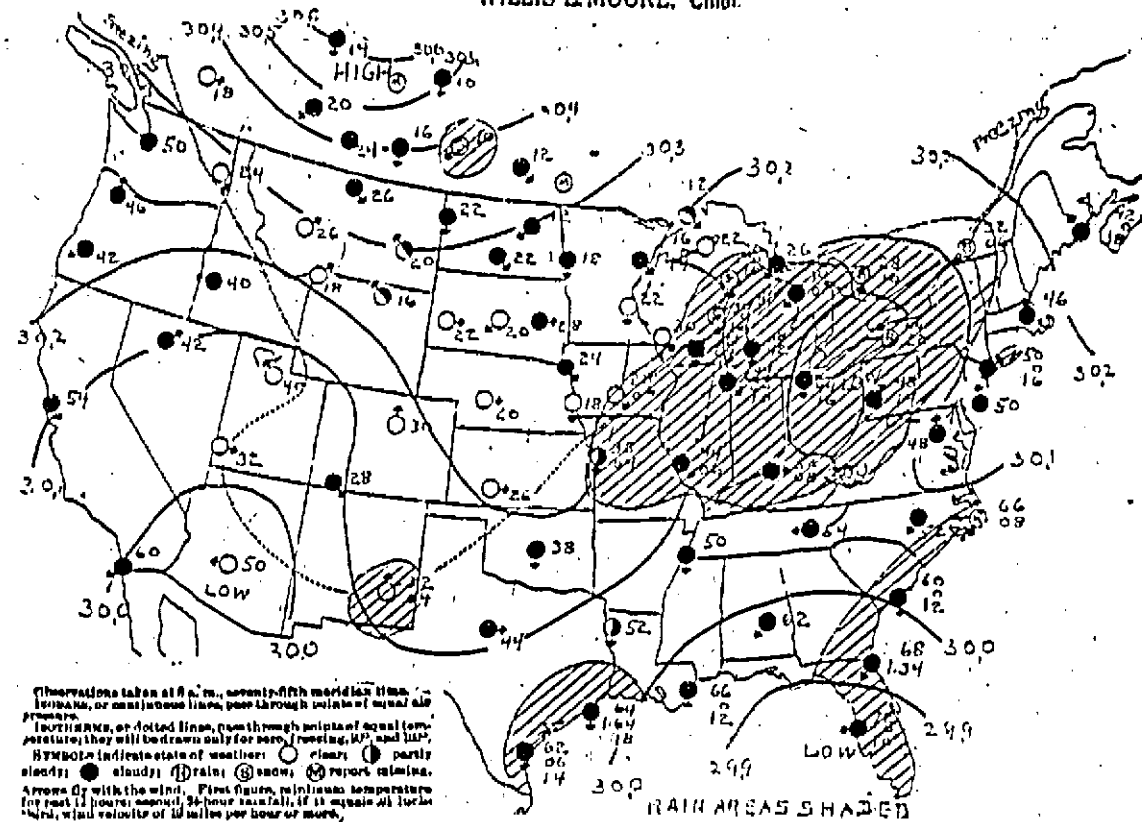

Carnegie's Great Reform.
"What do I think the greatest reform of the present day?" asks Mr. Andrew Carnegie in the Strand. "What single act would I select for instant consummation if I had the power? I would enact the abolition of war. I would abolish war between nations, which belies our claims to civilization. As long as men kill each other they are savages." But think, adds the editor, what a tremendous act this would be, and of what far-reaching significance. A decree would be signed disbanding armies, dismantling navies, and putting ships, guns and weapons on a scrap-heap. It is certainly difficult to conceive of a more sweeping reform than this, but if it were brought about by a stroke of the pen it would probably throw millions of men in idleness, and disorganize irreparably the whole machinery of civilization.

That Held 'Em.
Tourist—So you've stopped motor car speeding? How did you do it? Heavy fines? Native—Nope. Every fellow who was pinched had to take the judge's old maid daughter out for a 5-hour ride.—Puck.

Killed on Rocking Horse.
To find their little son hanging dead entangled in the reins of his rocking-horse, was the sad experience of Sunderland, Scotland, parents, a few days ago. The little fellow, Raymond Watson, used to cleverly ride the horse while it was swinging briskly, and it is thought he had been playing circus tricks, had lost his balance, and having been unable to extricate himself in the absence of his parents, had been choked to death.

One Kind of Greatness.
There is a kind of greatness which does not depend upon fortune; it is a certain manner that distinguishes us, and which seems to define us for great things; it is the value we inensibly set upon ourselves; it is by this quality that we gain the deference of other men, and it is this which commonly raises us more above them than birth, rank or even merit itself.—La Rochefoucauld: "Reflections."

Perfect Peace.
"It's so quiet here," wrote a man who was rustling in the country, "that I lie and listen to the bed-ticks tug!"

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
The barometric depression that was over the Mississippi valley yesterday has moved eastward to the lower lake region. It was attended by light rain in the north central states. Another atmospheric disturbance of the same kind in the Gulf of Mexico has caused heavy rains at Jacksonville and Gainesville, and scattered light rains on the south Atlantic and west Gulf coasts.
Another great area of high atmospheric pressure has made its appearance in the Canadian northwest. Like the last one, its margins are marked by cloudy weather with snow flurries in Saskatchewan. It continues cold in the Rocky Mountain region and along the whole Canadian border. In this vicinity it will be colder, with cloudy or partly cloudy skies to night and Wednesday.

Clean Flour

It makes bread that tastes sweeter and better—naturally. Every kernel of wheat used in these flours is washed in pure artesian water, dried and brushed, before being milled.
Those who have seen the operation say that it is almost impossible to believe that the water should be so discolored by wheat that is apparently perfectly clean before being washed. Something to think about.

Rector Coffee

THAN WHICH THERE IS NO BETTER GROWN.

Good coffee possesses a direct beneficial action on the system. Just as well grown nutritious celery is said to supply the brain with phosphates—food for the brain cells—while poorly grown celery has no such effect. So it is with good, well-cultivated, well roasted coffee. Such coffee supplies the nerve center with an element that feeds the nerves—tones them up—makes them strong. Since the nerves control every function of the body, good coffee benefits all the organs of the body, gives you a strong mental grip, and helps make your success. But poorly grown—badly roasted coffee does not possess this beneficial effect, and has absolutely no beneficial action on the nervous system. Rector Coffee is good coffee—it is the best. It is rich in the nerve feeding element. A cup of Rector Coffee is beneficial to health—feeds the central nervous system—it's rich, delicious, creamy taste and fragrant aroma make it a most delightful beverage.

Great Automobile-Piano Prize Campaign Received With Rush of Favor

$2,500 GIFT EVENT, INAUGURATED BY THE GAZETTE, DEMANDS ATTENTION OF ALL—SCORES OF NOMINATIONS RECEIVED.

VALUABLE PRIZES TO BE GIVEN

ONE OVERLAND TOURING CAR, HEADS THE LIST, ALSO THREE $350 PIANOS TO BE GIVEN—NO ONE LOSES.

The great prize circulation campaign, recently inaugurated by The Gazette, has undoubtedly met the approval of all the reading public of Janesville and Rock county. This fact is attested by the number of inquiries received daily regarding the great event. The telephone lines are kept busy answering calls, and each mail brings in letters from this city and, in fact, all over Rock county.

The prizes offered are the finest that can be purchased and the selection was made with the idea of awarding something practical as well as valuable. The Overland touring car, purchased of Sykes & Davis, of Janesville, is to be given as a grand prize. The Overland is one of the best automobiles values on the market today. The output of this factory each year is 20,000. Sykes & Davis have sold many Overland machines in this vicinity this season, and the demand has exceeded the supply to date; this fact alone is evidence of their popularity. Aside from the Overland touring car, three $350 pianos, three diamond rings, three 28-week scholarships, valued at $100 each, in the Janesville business college and three solid gold watches will be given.

The pianos that will be used here never sell for less than $350. They are fully warranted against any defects in material and workmanship. The scholarships, in the Janesville or Beloit business colleges, are each good for 28 weeks of instruction in the combined courses. This entitles the winners to instruction in every department.

The diamond rings are of $50 valuation. The watches are 15 jewel

Elain, in solid gold cases. In all, there are thirteen prizes, still non-winners are not to be disappointed as they are to receive in cash, 5 per cent of the money turned in by them.

Division of Territory.
The division of territory for this event, is equal. The city of Janesville comprises district number one. Each district is to receive one piano, one diamond, one scholarship and one watch, regardless of the number of votes cast in any of the other districts.

District number two comprises all territory outside the city limits of Janesville west of the Rock river. District number three comprises all territory outside the city limits of Janesville, east of the Rock river.

The Overland car will be given to the lady having the highest number of votes December 23rd, regardless of districts.

Any lady may compete in this great event. She may enter her name by using the nomination blank that appears in this issue of the Gazette. The first publication of names will appear in next Monday's issue. The campaign closes just seven weeks from next Saturday.

If you would appreciate one of these valuable prizes you should recognize this as YOUR OPPORTUNITY. It costs you absolutely nothing to compete and when your name appears your friends will undoubtedly flock to your support.

Should you desire a more thorough explanation regarding this event, telephone or write the Campaign Manager in care of The Gazette. Tomorrow evening's issue of The Gazette will contain additional information.

Hurt in Queer Accident.

An astonishing accident occurred lately at Hobart, Australia. A man named Griffiths was riding a bicycle, and when passing an omnibus the driver swung his whip, catching him around the neck. The cyclist was helpless, and before he could save himself he was jerked under the vehicle and sustained serious injuries.

THEATER

MADAME ZEISLER.

The world's most famous pianist, Madame Zeisler, will be heard this evening at Myers Theater.

The following are a few press notices of the esteem in which Madame Zeisler is held in the various large cities of the United States and express the highest tribute to her applied art:

St. Louis Globe Democrat, April 28, 1909.—"For her tone so pure, her touch so positive, yet with infinite delicacy and intricacy of feeling Miss Zeisler has few peers."

St. Louis Globe Democrat, April 28, 1909.—"Miss Zeisler is a unique figure among native pianists. She possesses, in more numerous degrees than any of her contemporaries, the quality they may best be described as temperament."

Kansas City Post, May 1, 1909.—"She plays Chopin like Debussy, Schumann like Liszt, and Schubert like D'Albert, the French and Russian compositions like Paderewski, and all combined with the freshness of Liszt, making a composite of the most famous living pianists."

Kansas City Journal, May 1, 1909.—"Mrs. Zeisler is easily the foremost woman pianist in this country, and has for a number of years occupied a position among the piano virtuosos of the world."

"The Deep Purple" is a highly successful play, even if it is about crooks and scoundrels. If we had made the "hunger" game win and the honest chap lose, we should be in no position to claim the support of the righteous. As it is, however, we are as moral as the first tender."

"The Deep Purple" will be seen at Myers Theater, Friday, Nov. 3.

Cork the Beauty Center.

For feminine beauty go to Cork. On the occasion of her first visit to Ireland—in 1849—Queen Victoria wrote of the women of Cork: "The beauty struck us much; such beautiful dark eyes and hair, and such fine teeth; almost every third woman was pretty and some remarkably so." Of the women of Belfast there was less to be said, nothing more than: "The people are a mixture of nations, and feminine beauty had almost disappeared."—London Chronicle.

Agas, Add Jarments.

Centuries ago, as Sir Walter Scott says, in "Ivanhoe," men wore one thickness of cloth, whether of wool, leather or velvet. The shirt was invented, but for a long time was worn only by the nobility and gentry. Then followed the waistcoat, breeches and, later on, trousers. The overcoat, which succeeded the medieval cloak, was rare until the seventeenth century.

Three Celebrations.

A young couple were married the other day at Druggan, France, on the same day that the girl's parents celebrated their silver and the bridegroom's parents their golden wedding.

before we had written a line, to construct a play on the principle of the broadest and most uncompromising morality imaginable. Let us take the most firmly established principle obtainable," I said, "the idea that virtue must triumph and that vice must be punished."

"That was the first step. Next was to find a way of presenting this favorite sermon in a new and attractive dress. This was furnished in the 'hunger' game. Now, you can make a manly hero and a tender, loving hero, and you may not draw thirty cents, but put them in a red-blooded man, and then let them be true to their principles—and you get five figures on the statement at the end of the week."

"When I say 'The Deep Purple' is educational, I speak seriously. It shows up crime in detail, turns the light of publicity on the doings of a certain class of law-breakers and thus provides the citizens with a means of identifying crime and avoiding the traps of criminality. The greater familiarity of the public with the life of the underworld, the shorter the list of the underworld will be, for with better understanding will come a lessening of opportunities for the perpetration of crime."

"Thinking with the concrete example, 'The Deep Purple' is a highly successful play, even if it is about crooks and scoundrels. If we had made the 'hunger' game win and the honest chap lose, we should be in no position to claim the support of the righteous. As it is, however, we are as moral as the first tender."

"The Deep Purple" will be seen at Myers Theater, Friday, Nov. 3.

Human Sacrifices Still.

In some parts of Syria the peasants believe that doctors and druggists have a right to kill one man and one woman every year to make medicines out of their bodies. A druggist whose establishment was boycotted because he was thought to have tried to murder a boy, brought suit against the boy's parents for their interference with his trade, but he received no damages, as it was recognized that the adults were believers in the old superstition.

Like Homicidal Mania.

"A man who has once murdered the queen's English always feels as if he'd got the body under the sofa. It's like homicidal mania; the poor wretch may be cured, but he lives in terror of an attack returning. He knows it doesn't matter what he is or what he does; he may live like a saint or write like an archangel; but one attack omitted from his conversation will wreck him at the last."—May Sinclair.

Japanese Dentistry.

There are mighty few fancy touches to the manner in which the Japanese native dentists conduct their business. The victim is seated on the ground, his left hand between the patient's jaws in such a manner that the mouth cannot possibly be closed. Then the dentist grabs the doomed tooth between the thumb and forefinger of the right hand and with one deft wrench yanks it out.

Huge Rope of Hair.

In the British museum there is a huge rope of hair, weighing nearly two tons. It was originally made for one of the emperors of Japan.

Not Altogether His Fault.

"My employer tells me that I will never learn the value of money," says the Philosopher of Polly. "And I guess I never will till I get a little to practice on."

You Can Use a Slipper.

"No girl is qualified for matrimony," says a philosopher, "until she knows how to spank a baby properly." Is there more than one way to spank a baby?—Toledo Blade.

Chestnuts, Apples, Cider and Popcorn Have Good Trade Today and Are of Good Quality.
Halloween is here and visions of apples to dive for, bitten at and carefully pared, of cider to be warmed at the grate fire, of chestnuts, hickory nuts or walnuts to be cracked, corn to be popped, and the many things which make one's mouth water, appear and demand recognition. Even the most staid and dignified persons may be noticed today seeking home a big bag of apples as the shades of night are drawing on and a thrill for a large glass of warm cider seems to be a universal feeling at this time of year. The finest kind of apples are selling at five cents a pound, as is popcorn, while chestnuts are to be had at from fifteen to twenty cents. The other prices today are:

About forty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kaskuska at 521 North Hickory street last evening for a farewell party. A fine musical program was rendered by an orchestra of five pieces taken from among the guests, after which cards were brought out. The prizes won were by Mrs. Andrew Schubert and Sidney Hudson. About midnight a dainty three-course luncheon was served, after which the party broke up with hearty congratulations for their hosts.

Simple Law of Nature.
The Phrenological Journal says the organs of the brain conform to the pressure of the spirit, mind or opinions we may entertain. The organs grow by what we feed upon. Let a person be kept in anger much of the time, and more blood will be sent to combativeness, destructiveness, etc. Thus it is that our opinions or state of mind affect our bodies, brains and features.

Dear for an Island.
The provincial government has undertaken the stocking of Queen Charlotte Islands with deer. Already several fine specimens have been placed on the islands and more will be captured and conveyed there. "The climate on Queen Charlotte Islands is eminently suitable for deer and we see no reason why these islands should not be made one of the finest game preserves in the province," said Bryan Williams, provincial game warden, today. "We hope by turning out about eighteen or twenty head on the islands to produce a sufficient number to allow of hunters spending a very profitable season there. A year ago several head of caribou were found on Queen Charlotte Island altogether different from the species to be found in other parts of British Columbia and although several expeditions have been sent there no traces of any caribou have been obtained since then."—Vancouver correspondence Ottawa Citizen.

Bound to Have a Ride.
With a party of Chicago friends, George Ade was motoring from his country home, Hazelton, to Kentland, Indiana, and while passing through a dense woods the party of braves was held up by a lone woman. After succeeding in halting the car, the highwayman announced, in broad Houshag accent, her intention of taking merely a ride. "I ain't got to harm nobody, but I've made up my mind to have a ride in one of these 'here things,'" she said, after seating herself in the tonneau. When Ade recovered his composure, he pulled out the throttle and away they went.

Character in Hand Shake.
Dulver thinks a man's nature is shown by the way he shakes hands; that he may have the manners of Chesterfield, and smile very sweetly, but yet may chill or steel your heart against him the moment he shakes hands with you. But there is, he says, a cordial clasp which shows warmth of impulses, unhesitating truth, and even power of character—a clasp which recalls the classic trust in the "faith of the right hand."

England's First Airship.
History repeated itself when a lord's debate was interrupted by an aeroplane. For when Lord made the first balloon ascent in England on September 15, 1784, a cabinet council was engaged on most important state deliberations. But King George said: "My lords, we shall have an opportunity of discussing this question at another time, but we may never again see poor Lord; so let us adjourn the council and observe the balloon."—London Chronicle.

ECZEMA REMEDY ALSO WASHES PIMPLES AWAY

No remedy that I have ever sold for Eczema, Psoriasis, and all other diseases of the skin has given more thorough satisfaction than the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.
A 25¢ trial bottle can be secured at once.
My patrons find that D. D. D. not only gives instant relief to the itching, burning skin, quickly driving out all the disease germs, but it is also the most delightful wash for the complexion they ever used. Absolutely harmless and pleasant to use, D. D. D. cleanses the skin of all minor impurities, such as rashes and pimples, over night, and leaves the skin clear and smooth as that of a child.
It is now generally known that there is nothing that can equal D. D. D. as a household remedy for all skin troubles no matter what they are.
I, myself, am so fully convinced of the merits of this wonderful remedy that I will challenge you to try it. If the first full size bottle of D. D. D. does not make good every claim.

Keeping on the Safe Side.
An actor was recently asked to give a recipe for a successful play, and this was his reply: "There are two ways of having a successful play. One is to make money with it; the other is not to lose money. There is no sure recipe for the former. To absolutely insure the latter—don't produce the play."

Hint for Housewife.
Said the head of the crockery and chinaware department: "Every day we have to test pitchers with water to prove that liquids will not run back from the pitcher's mouth. If the housewife will only make sure to get a pitcher whose mouth curves down slightly she will have no trouble."

A Help Toward Making Yourself a Success.

It is hard to feel that one is not a success, to realize inwardly that he has not the qualities that will enable him to get on. But there is many such a man and many such a woman. They feel that no matter what they undertake, they will fail. They have a success feeling. Rather, they realize a lack within themselves; and though they are willing to undertake, they know what the outcome will be. Sometimes, the feeling doesn't go quite to this length. But they haven't much confidence. They are fearful of success. They are almost afraid to hope for it.

Usually people with either the one or the other of these outlooks do fail, though those with some self-confidence are more likely to succeed than those without any. For as a man thinks, so he is. Thought goes before action, and the thought of failure paralyzes effort.

But there is a remedy for this, a remedy that one can apply, the same as he would take a dose of medicine for a physical ailment. The one who is pessimistic, or lacking in self-confidence, should deliberately place himself in a success atmosphere. He should read optimistic and success literature. He should once a week hear some lecture or talk on self-confidence. He should make a practice of this. He should surround himself with this thought, until it begins to color his mentality. In time, it will. And he will find himself with a different outlook on the world. He will discover himself taking up work in a new spirit, and he will eventually find success coming his way.

He will probably need to force himself to do this. For the person of pessimistic outlook is usually inert. He is apt to say, "What's the use?" and let it go at that. But it is decidedly worth while to live in sunshine instead of gloom, to reap success instead of failure; and this remedy, if taken, will surely help to this end. A success atmosphere invigorates the spirit, just as a tonic does the body, and the person in mood of it should put himself in it just as deliberately, and keep himself there just as persistently, as he would take a doctor's prescription. Literature and lectures of this sort abound everywhere. So it is not a medicine difficult to procure. Start in with the remedy, if in need of it, and life will soon take on a brighter and happier hue.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

This world which clouds the soul with doubt is but a carpet made of straw. We know not what the whole intends; so when on earth things look bad, they're working out some scheme of good. SOUPS FOR COOL EVENINGS.

When the main meal is taken at noon there is no dish at night that "goes to the spot" like a nice hot dish of soup. Cream soups are appropriate for this meal and they are legion, so that all tastes may be gratified.

Cocoanut Soup.—This is one that is so perfectly delicious that the trouble of preparation will be swallowed with the first taste. Cook two pounds of veal bones in two quarts of water put over them cold. When reduced to one quart add the grated meat (or meat put through a meat chopper) of one cocoanut and cook a half hour; strain and add the milk of the nut and a pint of cream. Reheat and thicken with a tablespoonful each of flour and butter cooked together. Season with salt, pepper and a little onion juice and, just as ready to serve, pour over two slightly beaten eggs.

Queen Victoria's Favorite Soup.—Remove the fat from one quart of water in which a fowl has been cooked. Season with salt, pepper, onion juice and celery salt. Mash the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs, mix with half a cup of bread crumbs soaked in a little milk until soft. Chop the white meat of the chicken until fine as meal and stir it into the egg and bread paste. Add a pint of hot cream slowly, then add to the chicken liquor. Boil five minutes, add more salt and, if too thick, more cream; if too thin, add more crumbs. It should be a puree.

A fine soup may be made of the wing tips and bones of a turkey left from dinner.

The tough ends of steak, with a few bones, will make another good-flavored soup.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

JOHN HENRY'S ATTEMPT TO DISRUPT THE UNION.

By A. W. MACY.
The Embargo Act, which was enacted shortly before the outbreak of the war of 1812, was very unpopular in New England, as it interfered greatly with the commerce of that section. Sir James Craig, governor of Canada, employed one John Henry, an Irishman by birth but a naturalized American citizen, to go to Boston and ascertain whether the discontent was sufficient to make it probable that New England would care to sever its connection with the Union and line up with Canada. Henry remained in Boston three months, but as no pay for his expenses and services was forthcoming, he went to Washington and offered his documents for sale to the government authorities. The President allowed him $50,000 out of the secret service fund, and sent him to France in the employ of the government. When the documents were laid before congress they made a great sensation. England claimed however that Craig had acted entirely on his own responsibility, and the excitement soon died away.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Foremothers' Ways Do Not Count—Live in Your Own Day.

By Alice E. Whitaker.
So great is the conservatism concerning the trade or profession of housekeeping that it sometimes seems a great wonder that we are not now cooking in an iron pot swung on a crane and cleaning it with sand or home-made soft soap. As it is every inch of advance in housekeeping has taken a needless amount of time and talk to accomplish. In every other part of work now means are taken readily to meet changing conditions but when a new method in housekeeping is demonstrated before an audience of housekeepers, either audibly or to themselves, with an air of finality, "but I always do it so and so." The open minded, ready-to-learn women are in the minority according to many lecturers on household economies.

Man meets work, that he can not do easily in the old way, by employing mechanical devices and his wife must do the same or be constantly driven and worried by her housekeeping. Yet it must be admitted that now and then it is the man himself whose extreme conservatism impedes household progress. He does not wish to do as his grandfather did but seems no reason why his wife can not live in the day of her grandmother so far as housekeeping is concerned. He may be generously himself in the matter of new bonnets but snags his purse together at the mention of a fireless cooker.

Take the matter of keeping the house clean; it took years and years of preaching and teaching to eliminate the feather duster from the home, it will take more years and effort to banish the broom, especially the mis-use of it.

Women play bridge with all the attendant costs of price in fancy luncheon and elaborate dressing and then shrink from the cost of a cleaner. They will go over quickly and entirely to almost any new fad or fashion but not indifferent as to whether their homes will be any more healthful if the dust is drawn into a bag or thrown into the air they breathe.

Our foremothers raised clouds of dust and made holes in their carpets with their brooms. Many of their descendants do the same as if it were a traditional rite to be observed. Meanwhile people have congregated in great apartment houses where for good sanitary reasons shaking or beating rugs is not allowed. The backyards of individual houses are now measured by square feet instead of the quarter acre and even in those the sound of the rug beater invites a call from the health officer.

Undoubtedly there are women who will clean out the cracks in the back door step with a wooden skewer and yet will wash dishes with a rag composed of many fragments and squeeze it out of the dish water to lie in a vat until needed again. A physician once told a housewife that her kitchen floor should be wiped free of dust every day and thereafter she washed it with a generous amount of water, keeping it continually damp and a mop to be used.

A good many misguided housekeepers scrub and beat the beauty out of their household belongings and, in fighting the dust germ after this manner, they substitute the continued dampness which is a fine culture for molds and mildews. They scour and wash utensils and set them to air, after the fashion of long ago at isolated farm houses, not realizing that the air in town and city is laden with dust that includes much more than parties of mother earth. They sterilize fruit jar covers and then carefully wipe them with a cloth towel, thus adding more germs than were there before sterilizing.

It is a mark of improved housekeeping to keep clean all the time rather than spasmodically as by the old custom which made martyrs of women. They washed before daylight on Monday, they cleaned to the point of exhaustion on Friday, and baked to last all the week on Saturday. They lived to keep house and lost their housekeeping reputation if they swerved from the marts of the calendar of household duties.

EXCEPTIONAL FOOD VALUE OF UNROASTED PEANUTS.

The peanut, unroasted, is superior to meat or any other food as a supply of albumen, and all the mineral elements of food for which green vegetables are eaten. And peanuts contain fifty per cent. of fat, more easily digested than butter or lard. The circular on peanuts issued by the United States department of agriculture, says that the peanut will mature wherever corn matures, though a warm, sandy soil, south, is best. By selecting, for seed, continuously, those that mature earliest, the Virginia peanut can be well adapted to the northern states. One acre will grow an abundant year's supply for the average family.

PUTS AN END TO INDIGESTION AND A SOUR, GASSY, UPSET STOMACH

Take a little Diaprepain now and your stomach will feel fine five minutes later.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diaprepain in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent boxes of Pape's Diaprepain, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Bructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, everyday cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diaprepain.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By H. L. RAYN.

HALLOWE'EN.

It is lamentable to observe that the old-fashioned carnival of fun, frolic and duple dexterity which was usually pulled off on Halloween, is on the wane. Public sentiment seems to be against it, just as it is against the sideburn and the codfish tail. The time was when the boy who couldn't freeze a neighbor's yard with buckboards, dimension lumber and borrowed gates on Halloween was a greater disappointment to his parents than a son whose legs bowed out so far that he couldn't make the football team. After a man has had a plank sidewalk and a new picket fence removed to another part of the city, the chances are that he can't locate his own residence without the aid of a street directory. A boy will eat supper with a face like one of Napoleon's cherubs, and then go out on Halloween and scatter consternation and top buggies all over the neighborhood. But the industry is declining. The advent of the childless nightwatch, who has about as much sympathy with the bubbling spirits of youth as a low-spirited janitor, is fast making Halloween as thrilling an occasion as an undertakers' convention. Parents now devise other forms of amusement for their children on Halloween, such as sharpening the family slipper or uttering a few words of caution with the bare hand. To the credit of the town, be it said that it comes only once a year, usually in the fall, other wise the movable property in the community would change hands faster than a Mexican dime.

Frank Barnes, who has been sick, is reported to be on the road to recovery.

The sudden death of John Barrett came as a shock to his many friends and our sympathy is extended to his family in their sorrow and loss of a kind brother.

MISS MINERVA and WILLIAM GREEN HILL

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

CHAPTER III.

The Willing Worker.

"Get up, William," said Miss Minerva, "and come with me to the bathroom; I have fixed your bath."

The child's sleepy eyes popped wide open at this astounding command.

"Ain't this here Wednesday?" he asked sharply.

"Yes; today is Wednesday. Hurry up or the water will get cold."

"Well, no an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln just washed his Saturday. We ain't got to wash no more till nex' Saturday," he argued.

"Oh, yes," said his relative; "you must bathe every day."

"No an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln ain't never wash on a Wednesday since we's born," he protested indignantly.

Billy's idea of a bath was taken from the severe weekly scrubbing which Aunt Cindy gave him with a hard washing, and he felt that he'd rather die at once than have to bathe every day.

He followed his aunt dolefully to the bathroom at the end of the long back porch of the old-fashioned, one-story house; but once in the big white tub he was delighted.

In fact, he stayed in it so long Miss Minerva had to knock on the door and tell him to hurry up and get ready for breakfast.

"Say," he yelled out to her, "I like this here; it's more as fine as Johnny's Wash Hole, where me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln goes in swimmin' ever since we's born."

When he came into the dining-room he was a sight to gladden even a prim old maid's heart. The water had curled his hair into riotous yellow ringlets, his bright eyes gleamed, his beautiful, expressive little face shone happily, and every movement of his agile, lithe figure was grace itself.

"I sho' is hungry," he remarked, as he took his seat at the breakfast table.

Miss Minerva realized that now was the time to begin her small nephew's training; if he was ever to teach him to speak correctly she must begin at once.

"William," she said sternly, "you must not talk so much like a negro. Instead of saying 'I sho' is hungry,' you should say, 'I am very hungry.'"

Listen to me and try to speak more correctly."

"Don't! don't!" she screamed as he helped himself to the meat and gravy, leaving a little brown river on her fresh white tablecloth. "Wait until I ask a blessing; then I will help you to what you want."

Billy enjoyed his breakfast very much. "These muffins sho' is—" wanted more tears to fall into the churn; but the tears refused to come and he couldn't squeeze another one out of his eyes.

"Aunt Minerva," he said mischievously, "I done ruin't yo' buttermilk."

"What have you done?" she inquired.

"It's done ruin't," he replied, "you'll bathe 't'ow it away; 'tain't s'fien fer nothin'. I done cried 'bout a bucket-ful in it."

"Why did you cry?" asked Miss Minerva calmly. "Don't you like to work?"

"Yes'm, I jes' loves to work; I wish I had time to work all the time. But it makes my belly ache to churn—I got a awful pain right now."

"Churn on!" she commanded unsympathetically.

He grabbed the dasher and churned vigorously for one minute.

"I reckon the butter's done come," he announced, resting from his labors. "It hasn't begun to come yet," replied the exasperated woman. "Don't waste so much time, William."

The child churned in silence for the space of two minutes, and suggested: "It's time to put hot water in it; Aunt Cindy always puts hot water in it. Lemme git some for you."

"I never put hot water in my milk," said she, "it makes the butter puffy. Work more and talk less, William."

Again there was a brief silence, broken only by the sound of the dasher thumping against the bottom of the churn, and the rattle of the dishes.

"I sho' is tired," he presently remarked, heaving a deep sigh. "My arms is 'bout give out. Aunt Minerva, Ole Aunt Blue-Gum Tempy's Perny Pearlino see a man churn with his toes; lemme git a chair an' see if I can't churn with my toes."

"Indeed you shall not," responded his annoyed relative positively.

"Sometimed Sophy knowed a colored 'oman what had a little dog went round an' round an' churn for her," remarked Billy after a short pause. "You had a billy goat or a little nanny I could hitch him to the churn for you every day."

"William," commanded his aunt, "don't say another word until you have finished your work."

"Can I sing?" he asked.

She nodded permission as she went through the open door into the dining-room.

Returning a few minutes later she found him sitting astride the churn, using the dasher so vigorously that buttermilk was splashing in every direction, and singing in a clear, sweet voice:

"He'll feed you when you're naked, The orphan's tear he'll dry, He'll clothe you when you're hungry An' take you when you die."

Miss Minerva jerked him off with no gentle hand.

"What I done now?" asked the boy innocently. "Tain't no harm as I can see jes' to straddle a churn."

"Go out in the front yard," commanded his aunt, "and sit in the swing till I call you. I'll finish the work without your assistance. And, William," she called after him, "there is a very bad little boy who lives next door; I want you to have as little to do with him as possible."

CHAPTER IV.

Sweetheart and Partner.

Billy was sitting quietly in the big lawn-swing when his aunt, dressed for the street, finally came through the front door.

"I am going uptown, William," she said. "I want to buy you some things that you may go with me to church Sunday. Have you ever been to Sunday school?"

"Now'm; but I been to pectracted meethin'," came the ready response. "I see Sometimed Sophy about tell she tore ev'ry rag off her back 'cep'tin' a shimmey. She's one 'oman who sho' is got 'ligion; she ain't never back-slid 'tall, an' she ain't never fell 'om grace but one time."

"Stay right in the yard till I come back. Sit in the swing and don't go outside the front yard. I shan't be gone long," said Miss Minerva.

His aunt had hardly left the gate before Billy caught sight of a round, fat little face peering at him through the palms which separated Miss Minerva's yard from that of her next-door neighbor.

"Hello!" shouted Billy. "Is you the bad little boy what can't play with me?"

"What you doing in Miss Minerva's yard?" came the answering interrogation across the fence.

"I's come to live with her," replied Billy. "My mammy an' papa is dead. What's yo' name?"

"I'm Jimmy Garner. How old are you? I'm most six, I am."

"Shucks, I's already six, a-going on seven. Come on, let's swing."

"Can't," said the new acquaintance. "I've runned off once today, and got licked for it."

"I ain't never got no-whippin' seince me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln's born," boasted Billy.

"Ain't you?" asked Jimmy. "I abes"

I been whipp'd more'n a million times, my mammy is so pertic'lar with me. She's 'bout the pertic'larst woman ever was; she don't low me to leave the yard 'thout I get a whippin'. I believe I will come over to see you 'bout half a minute."

Suiting the action to the word Jimmy climbed the fence, and the two little boys were soon comfortably settled facing each other in the big lawn-swing.

"Who lives over there?" asked Billy, pointing to the house across the street.

"That's Miss Cecilia's house. That's her coming out of the front gate now."

The young lady smiled and waved her hand at them.

"Ain't she a peach?" asked Jimmy. "She's my sweetheart and she is 'bout the sweetest sweetheart they is."

"She's mine, too," promptly replied Billy, who had fallen in love at first sight. "I's a-goin' to have her for my sweetheart, too."

"Saw, she ain't yours, neither; she's mine," he angrily declared the other little boy, kicking his rival's legs. "You all time talking 'bout you going to have Miss Cecilia for your sweetheart. She's done already promised me."

"I'll tell you what," proposed Billy, "lemme have her an' you can have Aunt Minerva."

"I wouldn't have Miss Minerva to save your life," replied Jimmy dispassionately, "her nake ain't no bigger'n that," making a circle of his thumb and forefinger. "Miss Cecilia, Miss Cecilia," he shrieked tantalizingly, "is my sweetheart."

"I betcher I have her for a sweetheart soon as over I see her," said Billy.

"What's your name?" asked Jimmy presently.

"Aunt Minerva says it's William Green Hill, but tain't, it's just plain Billy," responded the little boy.

"Ain't God a nice, good old man," remarked Billy, after they had swung in silence for a while, with an evident desire to make talk.

"That he is," replied Jimmy, enthusiastically. "He's 'bout the forgiest person ever was. I just couldn't get 'long at all 'thout him. It don't make no difference what you do or how many times you run off, all you got to do is just ask God to forgive you and tell him you're sorry and what you want to do, and he'll forgive you any your prayers, and it's all right with God. S'posin' he was one of these want-to-be-kind kind o' mans, he could make hisself the troublest person ever was, and the little boys couldn't do nothing a tall. I sure think a heap of God. He ain't never give me the worst of it yet."

"I wonder what he looks like," mused Billy.

MEDICAL HELP NEEDED BY EXCESSIVE DRINKERS

TORTURES PREVENTED BY THE NEAL TREATMENT

How "Winning Fights" Against the Drink Habit Are Waged at the Neal Institute, Milwaukee

It was at a recent afternoon gathering of club women that a lady, prominent in church mission work, declared: "For the first time in my life I began to realize what it means for the victim to drink to try to quit. I have never touched alcoholic liquor, but my doctor took tea and coffee away from me a few weeks ago. I have been in misery ever since. The fight I am having must be something like that which the excessive drinker experiences when he tries to stop liquor. My heart goes out today, as it never did before, in sympathy for the drinker who is trying to quit. I can now appreciate the suffering he must endure."

Excessive drinkers rarely stop of their own accord. They try hard enough, but find themselves seized with a relentless craving desire which upsets their resolutions and will. It isn't advice, abuse or harsh criticism that an excessive drinker needs as a corrective, but help—such help as thousands are getting every month in the Neal Treatment for the Drink Habit, administered at Milwaukee and sixty odd other Neal Institutes throughout American, Canadian and Australian cities.

The excessive drinker who makes up his mind to stop is inviting torture. This explains the failure of so many good intentions. The craving and desire which drags victims of the habit back to drink is simply a natural result of their physical condition. Every excessive drinker is saturated with alcoholic poison. His system is impregnated with it. Nature unaided cannot expel it. This poison which causes the craving must be neutralized before it can be eliminated. The Neal Treatment does both. Three days of the treatment are sufficient to bring about this amazing miracle. All craving and desire for liquor disappear. Shattered nerves are restored, muddled brains cleared, dull eyes brightened, dull appetites whetted and spirits revived.

The Neal Treatment is a vegetable remedy, taken internally and administered by regular physicians. There are positively no hypodermic injections.

Guests while taking treatment at the Neal Institute enjoy all the comforts and privacy of home, club or hotel. Names are never divulged. For complete information write the Neal Institute, 444 Cass St., Milwaukee.

Really Unkind Suggestion.

At a "musical evening" the hostess herself sang several times. She was generously applauded, excepting by one man, a newcomer to the city, who sat perfectly quiet. When the guests had gone the hostess said to her husband: "John, Mr. Earsley didn't applaud my singing once; I fancy he doesn't like music." "Or," he added, "he may be a musician."

Men's Inhumanity to Man.

Some men, when they are arrested on a serious charge, are sent to jail. Others, like one in New York, fare much worse. The magistrate told his wife to take him home and tell him what she thought of him.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

For this reason Vinol is regarded as one of the greatest body builders and invigorators for aged people, it invigorates and builds them up, and keeps them up.

We sell Vinol with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction the price will be returned.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Oct. 31, 1871. The deciding game of baseball for the championship series between the Athletics of Philadelphia and the Chicagoans, was played yesterday on the Union grounds, at New York, and resulted in favor of the former by a score of 4 to 1. The Chicagoans were whitewashed eight successive times, making their last run in the last inning.

A gentleman from the country tied a horse by a halter on Main street last night. Returning shortly afterwards he found the halter just as the horse had left it, after slipping it off over his head. This is one of the results of using great caution in tying horses. Had our friend been careless when making the knot, he might have lost a good halter, but as it is, nothing but the horse is missing. In his good fortune he has the congratulations of the public.

There has been a moisture in the air all day which looks like rain and feels like rain, and is pronounced by experts to be the genuine article. Here we will stop and take a new tack, for we discover upon looking out the window, that the rain has changed to snow. The first indication of "Winter." The cars from the north this afternoon were covered with a liberal coating of snow.

A NATURAL QUERY. "My little dog has fleas," the woman cried. "Do give me something that will cure them, please?" And then the puzzled drug store clerk replied, "What seems to be the matter with the fleas?" "Find the drug clerk."

UNCLE WALT

The Post Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams

BY WALT MARION

"I have a kick coming," the chronic grouchy said; then broke into a humming around his nose. The pushers and boosters were tired of his game, and all those little roosters jumped onto his trunk. They rolled him and charged him until full of pain, and then at last he lay at the altar. Perhaps they were alive; some critics may say their course was a bit hasty or quite rash. But what makes him kick, when starting a boom, then seeing some kicker come rocking with gloom, to fill his objections and utter his roar, and spring recollections of income gone before? And what can be rougher on temper and soul, than hearing some dufer, who worships his role, object to all measures, to cranking a new vent, and back at all pleasures that cost him a cent? To you, who are spending the lastest sports, because of their burning a grudge, one poster: Some method of slaughter is needed for jays who're throwing cold water on things all their days.

Dog's True Heaven.

Wonderfully trained sympathetic and smart dogs are the dearest companions of almost every German student who has the money to afford one or more. These can be seen in the university towns fantastically outfitted with the student corps color, in ribbons or wearing the tiny monkey student cap on dog's head. Often are dogs sent on all sorts of chores, carrying a basket of eggs, bread or butter, a bottle of brandy, dressed chicken, etc. Outside of too many labor stunts—often grievous drudgery—Germany is the dog's true heaven.

Aye, Times Are Changed!

Guests were expected to drink too freely of liquor at castles in the Scotch highlands years ago, and a servant is said to have once exclaimed: "Ach, it's a fair changed times at Castle Grant when gentlemen can gang to bed on their ain feet, whatever."

Ignorance.

Ignorance of books is not the greatest ignorance. Ignorance of the ways of peace, of kindness, of justice, of charity, of unselfishness and honesty, is the ignorance which works the most harm.

MANY ROB YOUR UNCLE SAM

The Old Gentleman's Coffers Have Been Relieved of Fully $19,000,000.

Poor old Uncle Sam is up against it. As if he didn't have his hands full enough trying to keep his nephews and nieces from robbing each other, and "unreasonably" restraining each other's trade, some ungrateful members of his family have been constantly dipping their hands in his pocket while he was busy looking out for their welfare.

Did you get any of the $19,000,000 which has vanished from the old gentleman's coffers? No? Well, it must be your own fault then, because, judging by the apparent ease with which this sum has been spirited away, it ought not to be very difficult. You have always heard that Uncle Sam's accounting system represents the last word in the science of book-keeping? You thought it was hard to beat the government? Pah! Just try it and see. To be sure, the guardians of the national treasury are improving with practice. They are either becoming more honest or are watching each other more closely. But, still, there is a tiny little sum leaking away that you could no doubt spend and have a jolly time doing it. Just use if you can't find the leak; and least you should think it not worth while, be it known, that last year alone the treasury department reported a shortage of $1,586,154.24 of the funds supposed to be in the mint, subtreasuries, assay offices and United States depositories.

New Aeroplane Bomb Test.

Aeroplane are soon to be put to a severe test by the war department. It is desired to ascertain whether it would be practicable to drop a 200-pound bomb from one of the flyers without endangering the machine and the lives of its operators.

Bert J. Idzerack, an expert on explosives, has been ordered from San Diego, Cal., to the army aviation school at College Park, Md. Idzerack will endeavor to solve certain problems that now stand in the way of safety in attaching such a bomb to an aeroplane, its transportation by that carrier and its release in midair.

Uncle Jerry.

"There's two things about this blamed grapefruit that I can't understand," said Uncle Jerry Peabody, "One is that it's called 'grape' fruit, and the other that it's called grape 'fruit'."

Fooled Only Himself. There was an American once who stayed for long in England that he imagined he had not only got out of the "American manner," but had shed the Trans-Atlantic accent. He deceived many and was happy until the day of his return. "First-class to Liverpool, how much?" said he to the booking clerk at Kuston. "Five dollars and a half, colonel," promptly replied the clerk, and the illusion was shattered forever. It's a matter of intonation when we are all speaking the same words.

The Eternal Now.

Concern yourself as little as possible with your past. Unnecessary self torture over what you have been will only cripple you in your noble battle to be better. Now is the only point of time of great moment to you. If you devote yourself to now the past will be a dream, the future a present realization.—Joseph Russell Clarkson.
